35 Ways To Give Where You Live in Lebanon, Ohio

Lebanon, Ohio, November 27, 2023 – Across the nation and the world, Tuesday November 28, 2023 will be acknowledged as Giving Tuesday, a global generosity movement unleashing the power of people and organizations to transform their communities. This year in the City of Lebanon, a local response to the global movement celebrates 5 years promoted by the community organization GivingTuesdayLeb.com. This community wide celebration of giving and volunteerism is a way to bring attention and support to local nonprofits. This local initiative will also encourage everyone to “Give Where You Live.”

At the heart of this campaign is the online Giving Guide at GivingTuesdayLeb.com. This digital directory serves as a platform highlighting 35 participating nonprofit organizations in Lebanon and Warren County and actively promoting their end-of-year giving campaigns. The primary purpose of the online directory is to provide a comprehensive overview of the various charitable initiatives in the area, enabling potential donors to make informed choices aligned with their personal philanthropic goals. Beyond monetary contributions, the platform also encourages individuals interested in giving their time and skills to explore volunteer opportunities. Additionally, there are avenues for those inclined to contribute through in-kind donations, allowing donors to support organizations by providing goods and services. This comprehensive approach aims to facilitate a diverse range of giving options, fostering a spirit of community support and engagement.

Raye Kimberlin, Founder and Community Leader of GivingTuesdayLeb.com stated, “The platform was designed with the community in mind. This directory provides a convenient and centralized resource for individuals seeking impactful causes to support during the crucial year-end giving period. It aims to streamline the process of finding and connecting with nonprofit organizations committed to making a positive difference in the community.”
